Assessing Faith-Based Actors'

Contributions to the SDGs

COURSE DESCRIPTION

This short, self-paced e-learning course was developed by The International Dialogue Centre - KAICIID and the Lutheran World Federation (LWF) with contributions from the National Muslim Council of Liberia (NMCL).

Through their work, faith-based actors often make important contributions to achieving the 17 United Nations Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs). However, in many cases, faith-based actors are unaware that their work contributes to this larger global agenda. Relatedly, governments and the United Nations are yet to fully understand the critical role that faith-based actors play in being agents of change in society, and in contributing to development at various levels. A common language is needed to bring these actors closer together.

This course is developed to encourage and enable faith-based actors to explore how their current work links to the SDGs, and to make these links visible and more intentional. It is designed to promote the use of the SDG self-assessment tool developed as part of The Lutheran World Federation (LWF) 'Waking the Giant' initiative; to help broaden the evidence based on how faith-based actors around the world contribute to the specific goals and targets of the Agenda 2030.

All course components are available now and can be completed at a time that is convenient for you (within a one-month period). Please note that this course is not facilitated by a course team leader. Any specific questions can be emailed to the KAICIID E-Learning Unit at elearning@kaiciid.org.

ABOUT KAICIID'S SERIES OF SDGs SHORT COURSES

The practice of using interreligious dialogue (IRD) for engaging faith actors to support and promote the UN SDGs is rapidly emerging as a necessary tool for the twenty-first century education toolbox.

KAICIID's e-learning courses build the capacities of global leaders to address a number of today's most pressing challenges by developing knowledge, networks and skills.

The courses are part of an ongoing collaboration between KAICIID, UNEP, UPEACE, LWC, NMCL and ISCREB.

TARGET AUDIENCE AND FOCUS

This course is specifically designed for religious leaders, faith-based organizations, civil society and non-governmental organizations, UN agencies and other multilateral institutions, government officials, policy and decision-makers and individuals interested in this field.

- An overview of good practices and lessons learned in relation to the collection of data on faith-based actors' contributions to the specific targets and indicators of the UN Agenda 2030

ABOUT LUTHERAN WORLD FEDERATION (LWF)

The Lutheran World Federation (LWF) is a global communion of 148 churches in 99 countries, established in 1947. It acts on behalf of its member churches in areas of common interest such as theology, ecumenical relations, humanitarian assistance, human rights and various aspects of sustainable development. The LWF is engaged in the implementation of the Agenda 2030 and its Sustainable Development Goals through its Waking the Giant initiative, which focuses on SDGs assessment, capacity strengthening, advocacy and mobilization of faith actors.

Marina Dölker, LWF Program Executive for Diakonia and Development

Marina currently works at the Lutheran World Federation (LWF) in Geneva, Switzerland, as Program Executive for Diakonia and Development. She coordinates different global initiatives on churches' engagement in development and humanitarian work and leads LWF's capacity strengthening measures with churches surrounding their diaconal engagement. Before joining the LWF in 2017, she worked, inter alia, at UNFPA, the German Federal Ministry for Economic Cooperation and Development, Bread for the World, and a local peace-education NGO in Kosovo. Marina is a political scientist from Germany and holds a master's degree in International Relations and Peace Studies from the University of Tübingen.

Isaiah Toroitich, LWF Head of Global Advocacy

Isaiah currently works at the Lutheran World Federation (LWF) in Geneva, Switzerland as Head of Global Advocacy, where he serves also as the lead for the Actions for Justice Unit. He leads the organization's policy and advocacy work on climate change and environment, human rights, gender justice and peace and interfaith action. Before joining the LWF, Isaiah worked with the ACT Alliance, also in Geneva, as the Head of Advocacy and Development Policy. Isaiah is from Kenya and holds an Executive Master's in Advocacy in International Affairs from the Geneva Graduate Institute, a Master of Arts degree in Development Communications from Daystar University and a Bachelor of Education degree from Kenyatta University.
